Parental responsibility

For children born after 01.01.2020, the main rule in accordance with the Children Act is that parents have joint parental responsibility. If:

- the mother wishes to have sole parental responsibility, she must declare this to the Tax Administration (Skatteetaten) within one year from the day paternity is established.
- the father does not wish to have parental responsibility, he must declare this to the Tax Administration (Skatteetaten) within one year from the day paternity is established.
- the mother has declared that she wishes to have sole parental responsibility and the father wishes to have joint parental responsibility, he must take the case to court himself.

The father is aware of his rights and obligations as a father and the rules on parental responsibility at regjeringen.no/bfd/farskap

The declaration has been registered and archived in the Norwegian National Population Register.
